The FRICoRe Training the Trainers workshop’s purpose is to help trainers to focus on the powers and duties of national courts in cases concerning fundamental rights. Emphasis is placed on three topics: 1) the impact of the duty of sincere cooperation on national case law; 2) ex officio powers and the ascertainment of a violation of EU law; and 3) the obligations of national courts in the context of effective judicial protection and fundamental rights, with a focus on the environment. Each topic is addressed from a cross-sectoral perspective across the areas of consumer protection, data protection, non-discrimination, health, and asylum and migration.
